It's Not Over

No way, no how is summer over. Even though school is starting soon (still feels weird) - summer isn't even half way over yet. The bugs know that all too well. All of the summertime fun and not so fun bugs are out in full swing.

Something that really helps with summertime bugs in your backyard, if you ever considered it, is a screen-in porch. It does not add square footage to your home; however, it does increase the salability when the time down the road does come for you to sell. Who doesn't like a screened-in porch? If you have pictures of your screened in porch send them to us, we love getting pictures from you! Here are some pretty neat ideas on what to do if you are considering getting a screened-in porch.
